

DSCO RoundUP 2020

IT'S NEVER TOO LATE FOR OUR LEGENDARY MOUSEMATS.

We are all feeling a little punch drunk from the effects of the lockdown and with the virus still out there and Brexit looming, these remain uncertain times.

We originally placed our order for the annual mousemats back in March - we even made them recyclable having listened to our clients' concerns last year. When lockdown occurred it meant that we couldn't take delivery. They eventually arrived in July – but they had a spelling mistake on the DSCO.

Cue a replacement order, which took extra time to process due to Covid working restrictions. They eventually arrived in September as things start to get back to normal.

It is a bit daft sending them out this late – but we wanted you to have them to show that things are now getting back to normal.

Your plans may have been disrupted and the story of our mousemat is a tiny example of what we've all experienced over the past six months. So when you look at that mousemat – remember this – we are here to help, we are functioning at full capacity and we are open for new business.

We can help you plan ahead – even in these extraordinary times – so that you can achieve more. Call us any time to discuss how you are doing and how your plans may have been affected and we wish you all the best for a successful 2020 and 2021.

All the best, from all the team at DSCO

David Suckling, CEO

“
We want you to have them to show that things are getting back to normal.”

The past six months have been busy.

We have taken the lockdown time to improve our remote working services and whilst we do have our offices open for face-to-face meetings we are able to meet over video link and provide advice at any time.

Firstly we made sure that you all had access to, and understood the support measures available – I do hope that this provided you with a little comfort as we were all forced to face up to a ‘new normal’.

We were all forced to face up to a ‘new normal’.

Having explained the support measures, we then assisted you with claiming the grants, furlough monies and bank loans - Please do let us know if you need any additional support. Please contact Peter in the first place who will ensure that we get the team ready to help you.

If you have friends who you feel could do with a pro-active advisory service – please do let us know.

During lockdown we have advised many of your friends and taken on about four new clients as a result. We are always happy to advise your friends and colleagues, so please do let them know we are here to help.

We have assisted clients to raise loans and claim grants for furlough monies.

The past six months have unsettled many norms and we have seen a rise in corporate acquisitions and disposals – indeed we have been involved in three company acquisitions and two company sales over the past six months. Please do talk to us if you see any opportunities to acquire or are considering selling.

As to the future - we are all nervous, I’m sure, about how the government will have us pay back the money used to support businesses and individuals – taxes may rise and we will keep you advised on the best tax strategies for your circumstances.

“

Corporate activity is still ongoing.
